Subject: Microsoft Settlement

Your Honor,

I think the purposed settlement is not enough, to quell Microsoft's anti-competitive behavior. They continue to do the same things they were found guilty of, to this day. That says allot about a corporation, and or even an individual. If the company was serious about complying with the court, they would have changed they're behavior, before they are ordered to do so by the court. To me this seems like a big joke to Microsoft, and I think they need to be punished more, possibly be broken up. I have been in the computer industry for over 10 years, even having worked for Microsoft. It was a fun company to work for, even though I disagree with some of they're ethical things.
